RED NOSE DAY

Friday March 24th

We are all planning to wear something red and so of course an outfit of your choice or school uniform would be fine!

MOTHERS' DAY SERVICE CHANGES

Due to circumstances beyond our control, I am afraid that we can no longer use All Saints church for our services on Friday. We love sharing our Mothers' Day celebration and we know that you cherish the opportunity to see your children and so we have decided to trust in the weather and go for an outdoor celebration at 10.45. Please join us if you can!

Local History Investigation

Here is an update from Aimee who is trying to find out more about Skelton in the 'olden days'. She has been passed some log books from Skelton Infant School starting in 1862. She thought you'd be interested to hear that in:

- 1881 School was closed by Dr Keith for one month due to a measles epidemic.
- 1893 Mr Wharton visited with toys and picture for the walls.
- 1901 The Education Board 'required that' school stop punishments such as hitting children on the head with books.
- 1916 Low attendance following an air raid.
- 1962 New Skelton Infant School building opened (our lower school).

Ms Walker still has more recent school log books that were maintained until 2002. They tell a very interesting story of daily life here at school!
THANKYOU AIMEE

NEW QUESTION

Does anyone know the names and any information about any famous people who were born in or near Skelton? We would love to set up a 'LOCAL HERO' display board!

(It could be you in twenty years!!)

If you have any information, please email the office.

THANKYOU

PIZZA

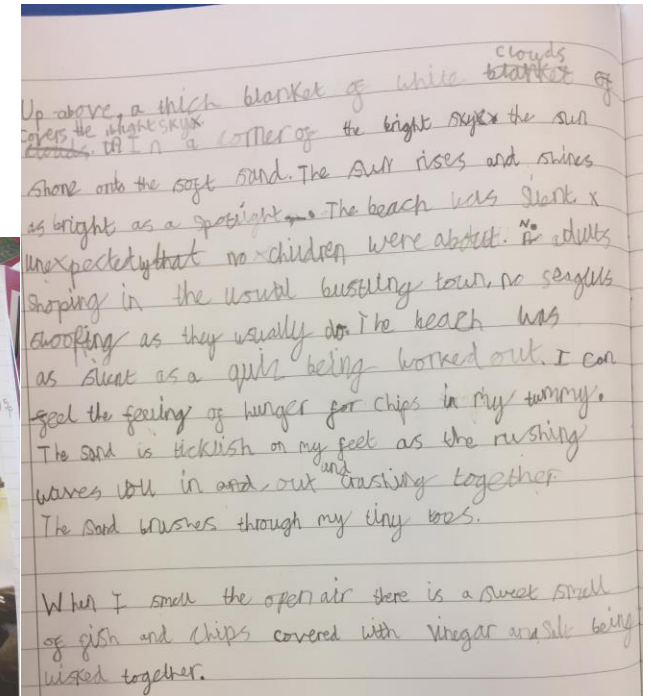

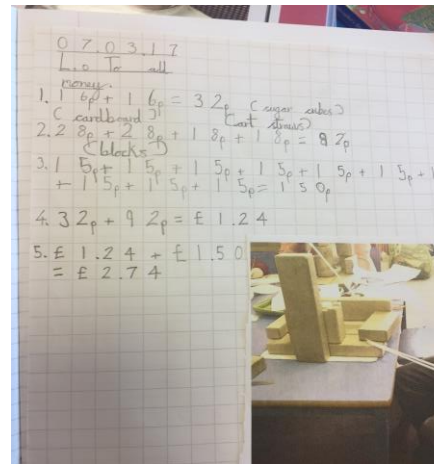

Year 1 will be selling pizza next Thursday (not Friday)

It's Year 2's turn to showcase some of their masterpieces this week and what a couple of weeks it's been! We've described settings, written some magical adventure stories, calculated the cost of building a castle and persuaded people to live in Shrek's swamp. We even ended the week by watching a scientist make elephant toothpaste.

A setting description for a beach.

Calculating the cost of a castle.
